I. List of the musicians

Carl Philipp Emanuel Bach (46) (b g1731; d g1788). Son of Johann Sebastian Bach (24); see §III (9) below.

Caspar Bach (3/a) (b g1680; d g?1644). Son of Veit (1). He is mentioned as a Stadtpfeifer in Gotha in 1619 and as a court and town musician in Arnstadt from 1620; on 23 October 1621 he received the sum of 1 gulden to buy a bassoon ('Dulcian'). As Hausmann (director of the town music) he lived in the so-called Neideckerturm (the tower of Schloss Neideck, Arnstadt). In 1633 he left the court's service (as a result of the Thirty Years War the court could no longer afford his salary) and bought a house in the Jacobsgasse. Nothing is known about his subsequent activities.

Caspar Bach (3/54) (b g1605). Son of Caspar (3/a). He was trained as a musician (violinist) at the courts of Bayreuth (1621–3) and Dresden (1623) at the expense of the Count of Schwarzburg-Arnstadt. In 1623 the court paid him 38 gulden for three months' educational and living expenses and for instruments, and on 11 October 1625 he signed a receipt in Arnstadt for the sum of 1 reichsthaler. He is thought to have gone to Italy, and from this point no more is known about him.

Christoph Bach (5) (b gWechmar, 19 April 1613; d gArnstadt, 12 Sept 1661). Son of Johann (2) and grandfather of Johann Sebastian Bach (24). He was in the princely service and a court musician in Weimar, then from 1642 a town musician in Erfurt and from 1654 court and town musician in Arnstadt. A musical entry by him in the album of Georg Friedrich Reimann, Kantor in Saalfeld, survives (Bib 1928, 175).

In 1955 Davis appeared informally at the Newport Jazz Festival. His sensational improvisations there brought him widespread publicity and sufficient engagements to establish a quintet (1955–7) with Red Garland (piano), Paul Chambers (double bass), Philly Joe Jones (drums) and John Coltrane, who in 1956 was joined and later replaced by Rollins. In May 1957 Davis made the first of several remarkable solo recordings on trumpet and flugelhorn against unusual jazz orchestrations by Gil Evans. In the autumn he organized a quintet, later joined by Cannonball Adderley, that proved short-lived; in the same year he wrote and recorded music in Paris for Louis Malle's film Ascenseur pour l'échafaud.
